

Dear IIT Alumni:

The Undergraduate Alumni Admission Program at Illinois Institute of Technology contributes to recruitment efforts to bring students to the university. Volunteers aid this effort by meeting and talking with applicants and admitted students. Through conversation, our alumni help the applicant gain a better understanding of IIT's outstanding academic and extra-curricular culture.

As a volunteer, you are in an excellent position to help applicants develop an understanding of what makes IIT a unique and wonderful institution. We are confident that the more informed our applicants are the more likely they are to choose Illinois Institute of Technology.

We value the contribution our volunteers make through the generous giving of their time, energy and intelligence to admissions work. We hope that each alumni volunteer enjoys being a participant in the ongoing conversation between IIT and the applicants.

Although the university may seem to have changed since you were an undergraduate here, the academic and intellectual culture remains very much the same. The quality of education we offer continues to distinguish IIT and is renewed each year by the incoming first-year and transfer students arriving on campus.

We welcome your support and energy. To volunteer, please contact Jill Sifuentes, Associate Director of Admission, at sifuentes@iit.edu.

Gerald P. Doyle
Associate Vice President
Undergraduate Admission